

KAND welcomes new Airport Manager Brett Garrison

Brett Garrison is the new Airport Manager at Anderson Regional Airport (KAND). Brett is very familiar to the aviation community in Anderson, as he is a lifelong resident and has grown up around the airfield, beginning his career as an FBO line tech at Anderson Aviation in 1985. Brett earned his Bachelor of Science Degree in Business Management with a minor in Marketing from Lander University. During his aviation career, Mr. Garrison has earned his instrument, multi-engine, commercial and ATP rating, and currently has over 5,000 hours of total flight time. Brett's 32 years of Aviation experience include flying as a Corporate Pilot, working as a certified A&P aircraft mechanic, General Manager and FBO line service technician.

Brett and his wife Kristy reside in Anderson, SC with their 8-month-old daughter Katie and their Finnish Laponian dog Brady. The Garrisons are devoted Clemson Tiger fans; enjoy boating, recreational flying and spending time with friends and family.

→ We are excited to have Brett with us at KAND and look forward to all the future holds under his leadership! →
